

A long, low, rectangular table with a dark, textured surface and thick, light-colored legs. The table is composed of several rectangular sections joined together, creating a modular appearance. The legs are made of a light-colored material, possibly metal or wood, and are positioned at the ends and in the middle of the table. The surface of the table has a dark, almost black, textured finish that resembles stone or a heavily grained wood. The overall design is minimalist and modern.

About This Item

With its flawless artistry and understated elegance, Linea sets a new standard for rustic modern collections. In the stunning Linea entertainment console, boldly patterned Black Forest marble and textured cast aluminum blend seamlessly in splendid style. The striking design features four push-to-open, self-closing doors and a metal frame which wraps around the entire case. With its deep charcoal background and snow-white striations, the marble lends a high-end, dramatic look to this functional piece.
